Meets State Alert

With Big Turnout

A state-wide alert brought Cameron's Company C, 3rd Medium Tank Bn, into action last Saturday. S-Sgt. Joe Vybiral received notice of the alert at 1:05 p. m. and put the mobilization plan into action.

The first hour the unit set up communications, checked transportation and issued equipment as men arrived from all points across Central Texas.

The unit pulled out to an area, which was hit by a simulated atomic bomb burst and set up to seal the area off from the public during the second and third hour.

The company returned at four and turned in equipment and dismissed at five.

At the end of the alert which Capt. J. T. Terry termed "very successful," 85 per cent of the men had reported in for duty.

State Librarian Outlines Program

William K. Peace, acting state librarian, of Austin, Thursday assured Cameron Library trustees and about 20 library boosters that Cameron could build a new library.

In explaining a library building program and a structure suitable for Cameron, Peace discussed a library construction program that was completed in Taylor last year.

He pointed out that Taylor, approximately the same size of Cameron and vicinity, raised about $40,000 in about two years and completed a modern 2,150 square foot library that would house up to 20,000 volumes.

Peace emphasized that Taylor planning anticipated growth needs for 20 years in the future and recommended the same projection for Cameron.

He was introduced by Dr. George Bowman, president of library board. The group met at the Citizens Room of the Citizens National Bank.

The state librarian's detailed discussion of the Taylor library program showed a number of similarities with the Cameron library.

Showing a scale model of the building, pictures and library literature, Peace pointed out that Taylor began with an 8,700 - volume library located in a barracks-type building similar to Cameron's Cameron's building now contains 2,771 volumes, which Peace recommended be screened for obsolescence before moving into a new building.

He noted that the modern Taylor structure was built on a site purchased for the project. The City of Cameron has set aside a site for a new library on E. Fourth St. Taylor paid $2,400 for their site.

Then the Taylor library drive began for the approximate $40,000 total to build and equip the structure. Taylor paid cash for the building.

He said response to the drive

Blake, announced that Explorer Post 85 in Cameron, will operate the concession booth. Plans are being made to have sandwiches for those who will be present at the supper hour.

Explorer Post 54 will conduct the commentary on the Scout-O-Rama and operate the public address system.

Cubs, Boy Scouts, and Explorers are now selling tickets. Admission is 50 cents. Packs, Troops and Posts receive 25 per cent commission on all tickets sold.

After all expenses of the Scout-O-Rama are paid, money earned will be used for the maintenance and improvement of the Heart O' Texas Council Boy Scout camp, Camp Tahuaaya, near Belton, on the Lampasas River.

'No Meter' Trial Sought By Group

The City Council Tuesday night received a petition from a nine man delegation of downtown Cameron Merchants seeking a three-month trial period without parking meters.

Spokesman Narvie Caperton presented the petition and asked the Council to consider the three-month trial without meters.

Mayor Coleman Duncum asked if it really helped business with the meters out during the Christmas holidays. Members of the group said they believed the free parking helped the Christmas business.

The parking meters are producing about $7200 annually, officials said, which if taken out, would cause the loss of that amount from the city's annual budget.

One businessman opined: "Is the revenue worth all the griping about the meters?"

The Council took the question under advisement and planned to poll businesses with parking meters in their locations.

Mayor Duncum suggested that the Chamber of Commerce might take a poll and the individual merchants might poll rural customers in their stores to check the total feeling of the trade area.

And councilmen discussed the possibility of a meter vote in the April City election and the need to improve meters. Councilman John A. Smith, said earlier meters are being repaired at about five a day by meter personnel.

And a councilman said a 5-cent fine within the hour of an overtime parking violation might ease the situation.

Councilmen also tabled a request from R. A. Gillette, of Temple, who wished to build a 60-vault mausoleum for a payment of $1,000 for lots in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The Council also heard a representative from an aerial map concern explain costs of aerial mapping of Cameron. Mayor Duncum said that cost of the maps, ranging from $400 to $1000 would be prohibitive at present.

And the Council planned to study the installation of lights at the Negro Park. The city has $1,000 budgeted for baseball diamond lights.

Fashion Benefit Nets Over $100

The benefit fashion show held in Cameron two weeks ago netted the Milam County March of Dimes over $100 for their annual drive. More than 100 Cameron residents viewed women's and children's fashions shown by The Leader, McIntosh's, Schigut's, Lewis - Child Shoe Store and Young Texans.

Co-chairmen for the show were Mrs. Niley J. Smith and Mrs. F. O. Smith, Jr. Assisting with arrangements were Mrs. Bill McIntosh, Mrs. Dana Monroe, Mrs. James Kahler and Mrs. Jimmy Lester.

Resolution Asks Federal Leaders To Intercede

The Milam County Commissioners last Thursday adopted a resolution requesting federal assistance in controlling water released from Belton Reservoir.

Signed by all five members of the County Commission, the resolution asked Texas congressional representatives and Vice - President Lyndon Johnson to consider the interests of bottomland farmers whose land is flooded by surplus water released at Belton Reservoir.

The appeal was for legislative or executive federal help in asking the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to release the water to avoid flooding Little River bottomland though rains in Milam County had not raised the level of the river beyond flood stage.

The Belton Reservoir, built about seven years ago on Leon River, controls waters gathering northwest of the Temple area. It was built to aid control of floods and water conservation.

Since the rain cycle has returned in 1957, officials said, Little River has "gone out" a number of times because of the amount of water released from the Reservoir by U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The resolution said in part: "The Corps of Engineers operates the structure by some sort of rules and regulations of a military nature according to graphs and charts prepared from readings taken on various river levels and other inflexible data. We have had our river bottom under water and cried for help only to be ignored and ridiculed. We have stood in our Courthouse and watched their floodwaters inundate our farmlands with representatives of the Corps of Engineers hovering over the site in helicopters and yet the waters come and this when there were no natural floods."

County Judge Don Humble said hundreds of farms along the river, which runs about 50 miles through Milam County, were affected when any kind of overflow occurred.

The resolution was signed by County Commissioners C. S. Roney LaVert McKinney, Byron Neal and R. H. McCasland and Judge Humble.

Organized Rural Communities Increase In Improvement Plan

COLLEGE STATION — Two hundred forty - one rural communities are participating in this year's Texas Community Improvement Program, reports Reagan Brown extension sociologist. The program is sponsored jointly by the electric utilities companies operating in Texas and the Texas Agricultural Extension service. A total of more than 9,000 families, representing all sections of Texas, are participating, says Brown.

Brown says the object of the program is better homes on better farms in better communities. Competing communities will be bying for a share of the awards to be distributed on a district and state basis.

Communities entered in the program are making progress in increasing and managing family income, improving health conditions and services, improving the farm and the home and encouraging social participation. Each community, however, chooses its own goals based on its individual needs.

All competing communities will be judged on the progress they have made in the twelve months period ending March 31, 1961. During April and May, district and state judging will be conducted and all interested persons are invited to participate in the community tours that will be conducted in various locations.

Brown says that as you drive up and down Texas highways, you will be able to recognize many of the communities participating in this program by the signs placed at their boundaries.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information on the Texas Community Improvement Program should contact the local county agricultural or home demonstration agent, Brown concludes.

County Agents Notes

Melon Disease Program Told

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

One or more watermelon diseases appear in Texas each year. Watermelon diseases can be controlled according to a definite plan. Diseases can seldom be cured but they can be prevented. In general, many watermelon growers can profit by reducing their watermelon acreage and by intensifying the disease control effort.

The following measures should be followed by all growers each year: 1. Rotate the location of your watermelons each year. Grow wilt - resistant watermelons only one time in the same field each 3 to 4 years. Do not follow watermelons after cantaloupes, cucumbers, squash or pumpkins.

2. Avoid badly diseased land as long as possible.

3. Grow disease - resistant adapted varieties as much as possible. Market demand and other factors will also need to be considered in choosing a variety.

4. Based on soil tests, add adequate amounts of fertilizer nutrients and soil amendments.

5. Use seed grown under disease-free conditions.

6. Makes sure the seed has been properly treated with a recommended fungicidal protectant.

7. Follow a spray schedule. a. Begin when plants start to run. b. Continue applications at 7 to 10 day intervals. c. Check the long range weather forecast. d. Check fields for diseases each second or third day during periods of above average rainfall. e. Use a ground sprayer that will apply 50 to 200 gallons per acre, f. Spraying is more effective than dusting. g. Spray with zineb (65 per cent) using 2 pounds per 100 gallons of water plus sprayer sticker.

8. Other practices that are helpful. One seed that is suspected of being diseased with anthracnose it is recommended that the seed be given a wet treatment with 1-1000 mercuric chloride solution followed by a treatment with thiram dust.

Use one gallon of the solution to treat one lb of seed. This may be used to three separate 1-lb. lots; then it should be discarded. Tie the seed loosely in cheese-cloth bags, soak in the solution 5 to 10 minutes, wash thoroughly in several changes of clean water, then spread seeds in a thin layer to dry.

Stir the seeds while immersed so that all air is liberated. Do not dry the seeds in direct sunlight or under high temperature conditions.

Mercuric chloride is a deadly poison. Be extremely careful in using it and in disposing of the solution and any excess treated seed.

After the seeds are dried they should be treated with a thiram seed treatment dust according to manufacturer's directions.

Plant watermelons in fields removed as far as possible from other fields or gardens where cucurbit crops were grown the previous year. This will avoid spread of the disease organisms on cultivation equipment, by animals or in drainage water.

Home Agent Notes Advanced Clothing Workshop Being Held By HD Agent

By Frances H. Johnson

Milam Home Demonstration Agent An advanced clothing Workshop is being held in Milam county by the home demonstration agent. The main points of interest are bound buttonholes, gussets and interfacing.

Bound or one - piece tailored buttonholes can be easily made if the instructions in the extension bulletin One Piece Tailored Buttonholes are followed.

The use of a two inch bias square of organdy to reinforce the point of the gusset on the bodice helps in putting in a gusset.

Interfacing can help give a more professional look to your spring sewing. It gives additional body to fabric and is a "must" with many pattern designs. The secret is in knowing where to use it and what kind to use.

Interfacing is most likely to be needed at edge where buttons and buttonholes are to be placed, collars, cuffs and pocket flaps often need interfacing to give them body

4-H Club Notes

By P. C. Garner

Ass't Milam County Agent

Are you interested in raising larger litters of pigs? Proper management is the key to success in raising pigs. Usually a gilt or sow will farrow from 10 to 16 pigs per litter. All too often at weaning time, the grower will have only 5 or 6 pigs. The others farrowed are lost due to being crushed by the gilt or sow, freeze, die from disease or other causes.

4-H members with Sears gilts had an opportunity to see a new-fangled farrowing house at Henry Richters, a registered Duroc breeder, last week.

Richter showed the young swine producers how he used farrowing chutes to prevent the gilt from crushing the pigs and the use of heat lamps to prevent the pigs from getting chilled and many other good management practices.

4-H members present were: Carey Wayne Offield, Larry Jungmann, Jane Mueck and Gwendolyn Jistel.

and the crisp, perky look that adds style to a garment. Peplums, yokes and the lower portion fitted jackets also are in need of some additional body for professional look.

Skirt waistbands may need a single thickness of interfacing to prevent the waistband from stretching. It also helps to keep the waistband from rolling or wrinkling.

A special extension bulletin -- Interface It -- gives information on different interfacing fabrics, when to use what, etc. It is clearly illustrated to show how interfacing should be used.

Ceremony Held At Montgomery

President Davis Inaugurated

By Robert Stonedale

Cameron Herald Correspondent
MONTGOMERY, Alabama, The first president of the Confederate States of America was inaugurated shortly after noon yesterday in an impressive ceremony which took place on the portico of the Alabama State House. Alexander Stephens, vice - president was also inaugurated.

After Jefferson Davis of Mississippi took his solemn oath to defend the Confederacy and its people from all aggressors, he lowered his head as waves of cheers swept over the huge throng of citizens present. With the event, the Confederate ship of state has been launched upon a tempestuous sea.

Davis arrived in Montgomery three days ago after a winding railroad journey through Mississippi, Tennessee and parts of Georgia. He delivered 25 short speeches along the route as he was greeted by thousands of enthusiastic Southerners. The distinguished Mexican War hero was welcomed at town after town with the greatest protestations of love and affection.

Eight miles from Montgomery the train was met by a committee composed of members of the Congress accompanied by the Columbus (Georgia) Guards under the command of Captain Paul J. Semmes.

The party arrived at Montgomery at 10:00 in the evening and delighted to the accompaniment of roaring cannon and excited shouts of thousands of citizens.

The present - elect was immediately escorted to the Exchange Hotel. About 45 minutes later he appeared on the balcony accompanied by the Honorable William Lowndes Yancey. The rain, which had continued all day, finally stopped as Davis stepped forward. The crowd hushed as Yancey presented the First Citizen of the Confederacy.

"The man and the hour have met." Yancey called out above the blazing torches. Cheers filled the air after the President-elect thanked those present for their kindness to him and bade the crowd goodnight.

At ten o'clock yesterday morning, the Marshal of the Day, Col. H. P. Watson of Montgomery, made a path through thousands of citizens who had gathered from near and far to witness the birth of the new Government.

The procession formed and moved forward to stirring band music and the paced salutes of artillery. It was escorted by brightly uniformed military companies including the Montgomery German Fusiliers, the Montgomery Rifles, and the Eufaula Rifles and the Columbus Guards.

The President and Vice - President - elect and Chaplain, Dr. Basil Manley, rode in an open carriage drawn by six white horses. They were followed by the congressional committee, ministers, Governors of the several States, Judges of the Supreme Courts of the several States and hundreds of other dignitaries.

Members of Congress and Mr. Howell Cobb, president of the provisional Congress, welcomed Mr. Davis to the platform.

Dr. Manley arose and offered a deeply impressive prayer for the safety and guidance of the Nation's new leader. The President - elect then spoke in penetrating tones with impressive manliness and great modesty.

"Called to the difficult and responsible station of Chief Magistrate of the provisional government which you have instituted, I approach the discharge of the duties with an humble distrust of my abilities and an abiding faith in the virtue and patriotism of the people," he said.

He then emphasized that the separation of the Southern States from the Union was the result of a proper appeal to the votes of faith in the virtue and patriotism of the people," he said.

He then emphasized that the separation of the Southern States from the Union was the result of a proper appeal to the votes of the citizens and thus a reaffirmation of the principle that government depends upon the consent of the governed. With great feeling he expressed a fond hope that the and friendship with the Union.

The South he pointed out is an Confederacy might enjoy peace agricultural nation and has no ambition to rival the industrial North. He emphasized however that if the Union offered violence, the responsibility would rest upon it and the consequent suffering would bear upon millions of Americans in both Republics.

"Their suffering could only bear testimony to the folly and weakness of our aggressors," he emphasized.

"Reverently let us invoke the God of our Fathers to guide and protect us in our efforts to perpetuate the principles which by His blessing they were able to vindicate, establish and transmit to their posterity; and with a continuance of His favor gratefully acknowledged, we may hopefully look forward to success, to peace, and to prosperity," he concluded. The President then turned and placed one hand upon the Bible, and with the other uplifted, listened to the oath. At its conclusion he exclaimed in a solemn, earnest voice, "So help me

God!" Since the ceremonies, Montgomery has been the scene of almost unrestricted revel. The gaudy uniforms of the militia companies are seen everywhere and the town is filled with officers and citizens seeking commissions in the Confederate service. Vigilant, resourceful and animated by patriotism, the South and its new President embark on what all hope will prove to be a long period of peace and prosperity.

Types of Farming Many In Texas

COLLEGE STATION — Soils topography and climate are the three physical factors having the greatest effect on agricultural production in Texas. The size of the state, approximately 200 miles between its east and west and north and south extremes, produces wide variations of these factors, and makes possible the wide diversity of farm and ranch production.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has recently released a publication, B-964, "Types of Farming in Texas" which points up some of the changes which have occurred in the state in recent years. The number of Texas farms has declined 40 per cent since 1937, the farm population is tural Economics and Sociology and the farm unit has doubled and a substantial change in the scale of production and in methods of operation of crop and livestock enterprises has occurred, says C. A. Bonnen, Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology and author of the publication.

For the purpose of the study made by Bonnen, Texas was divided into 17 major areas. Each is discussed with emphasis on the changes which have and are taking place along with future possibilities. The major and minor crops, size and type of farms, land tenure and available markets for each area are included in the discussion.

Even since 1954, Bonnen says farms have become larger, more specialized and more dependent on off-farm sources of income. The average size is now 630 acres; the number of farms reporting cattle in 1959 decreased 25 per cent, milk cows 50 per cent, hogs 30 percent, chickens, 40 percent, turkeys 50 percent and cotton 35 percent. Forty - three percent of all farms had more off-farm than on-farm income in 1959 as compared with 38 percent in 1954.

Deadline March 3

Farmers Told Of Acreage Release

Farmers who do not plan to plant all or part of their cotton allotments in 1961 can protect their cotton acreage history by releasing the allotment to the ASC County Committee says Alva E. Sanders, office manager, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. Such acreage must be released before the deadline, which is March 3.

A farmer who plans to plant at least 75 per cent of his cotton allotment this year need take no action to release any acreage in order to preserve the allotment base for his farm. But a farmer who fails to plant at least 75 per cent of his 1961 allotment will find his cotton allotment will be reduced in 1962 if he fails to release the unused part of his 1961 allotment to the ASC County Committee.

By releasing the unused part of the cotton allotment to the county committee, the individual farmer's 1961 planing history will be preserved and also the planting history of the county and State. The released allotment will be appropriated by the County Committee for use by other farmer within the county.

The requirements which cotton farmers must meet in 1961 in order fully to protect their future farm allotments are: The farmer must (1) plant at least 75 per cent of the 1961 allotment, or (2) release at least 75 per cent of the 1961 allotment to the ASC County Committee by March 3, deadline, or (3) plant and release a total acreage which is equal to at least 75 per cent of the 1961 cotton allotment, and (4) actually plant some cotton in 1961 if the entire allotment was released in both 1959 and 1960.

'How Y'a Gonna Keep 'Em...'

To paraphrase the familiar song title, "How Y'a Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm," might be sound conjecture as we head into the 1960's.

In view of vast population shifts in the past 10 years, we might ask: "How you gonna keep 'em off the farm?"

Movement has been so rapid that major cities across the country, particularly on the East and West Coasts, have had difficulty keeping up with obsolescence and demands for public services.

Developments have quickly spread to the suburbs and neighboring cities to the detriment of city tax bases and downtown areas.

Since the surge to the cities has not been accompanied by loyalty people once held for home communities and towns, their move away from the city comes easily when the economic bloom wanes and tax loads weigh heavily on their property.

When, for instance, downtown Los Angeles is 68 percent under concrete for parking and roadways, how long can people keep up with their city and county taxes? They either get relief from state or federal tax sources or they leave.

It appears that people would prefer to move before they vote to increase federal taxes further for more city concrete and sewer pipes.

The occurrence in Washington, the nation's capitol, is of interest. That city has gained the one million mark. Suburban development is fantastic, and incidentally the place where the higher wage reside. Negro population is 88 percent in the District. With suburbs went the taxable income and property values. Now Washington seeks $36 million to keep out of the red.

This situation is happening in many of the eastern cities. Some business and residential areas are decaying and thus not tax producing; other areas are building anew.

As this cycle continues to turn, metropolitan living will not be as interesting to new residents because the advantages will be balanced by disadvantages.

Out of this recurring dilemma is coming stronger development of small towns and cities like Cameron. Industry, government and people themselves will find salvation in the smaller units of towns rather than gigantic segments of cities.

Government and industrial planners see decentralization as an answer for better defense. High cost of production will continue to phase industries out of metropolitan areas to small country cousins.

The cities will continue to grow of course. But they face powerful fights for state and federal influence which historically favors the non-metropolitan districts.

But, it seems the day of natural population growth will spill back into the small towns, particularly those located amidst big cities.

Economists favor balance somewhere short of the "point of no return."

No Need To Flood Milam Farms

The Milam County Commissioners Court has written a formal resolution seeking controls of Belton Reservoir flooding to Texas Congressmen and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Speaking for hundreds of property owners who farm Little River bottomlands along its 50-mile course in Milam County, the Court asked that federal representatives from this area intercede for them in controlling outflow of water from Belton Dam.

Since the Belton Dam was built, river bottom farmers have borne the brunt of flood tides of water released when heavy rains in Milam County had not caused a normal flood stage. U. S. Army Engineer authority determines when waters from above the dam are to be released.

Experts have measured the per cubic yard flow capacity of the Little River and opined that the present channel would not carry the rush of water from the dam.

It cannot.

This is clearly a case of holding water and releasing it when arbitrary control requirements are met without due consideration for the consequences to the Milam area below the dam.

There should be some method of alleviating the bottomland farmer's dilemma without endangering the proper function of Belton Reservoir.

We hope that the U. S. Army Engineers, in seeking to do their job, do not forget they are serving the people and not just pressing buttons.

Some of the most productive land in Texas banks on the Little River. There is no reason it should be put under water without compensation or attempts to contain the flow.

Perhaps widening the channel at critical spots is an answer. Perhaps better timing of outflow from Belton Reservoir is an answer. Needless flooding of valuable grazing and farm land is not.

TP&L Announces Three Promotions For Executives

Promotion of three executives of Texas Power & Light Company was announced this week following a meeting of the TP&L board of directors in Dallas.

Lee E. Cook and L. A. Byron were named executive vice presidents of the Company, and T. L. Austin, Jr. was promoted to vice president. Byron was also elected to the board of directors. Cook is already a director of the Company.

Cook was formerly vice president and assistant general manager.

Byron was vice president in charge of operations and Austin was superintendent of power.

Byron came to TP&L in 1953 from a position as executive vice president of the Missouri Utilities Company and has been employed in the electric industry for 35 years. He had previously worked for T. P. & L. from 1928 to 1930. Austin came with TP&L in 1959 from a position as vice president of the Industrial Generating Co. in Rockdale. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama. He holds a degree in Mining Engineering and formerly worked for the Alabama Power Company. Cook has been with TP&L 40 years.

W. W. Lynch, president, general manager and chairman of the board of TP&L, will henceforth have the title president and chairman of the board. All other officers and directors of the Company were re-elected.

Lynch said the changes are being made because of the need for wider distribution of authority in line with the Company's growth.

Legislature Moves To Showdown

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — Legislature moved toward early showdowns as the House Revenue and Taxation Committee scheduled controversial bills in swift one - two - three order.

Coming up early on the committee calendar were three of the four measures in Gov. Price Daniel's special deficit - erasing program. Each renews controversies of last session. They are:

1. A new two - factor formula for figuring the franchise tax owed by interstate corporations based in Texas. At present the franchise tax is computed on the basis of receipts from sales in Texas.

"A firm which sells all its output in Texas," the governor points out, "pay a 100 per cent rate. A Texas - based company selling all its products outside Texas pays none."

New formula would hit these interstate corporations. Governor Daniel calls it "closing a loophole." Industry spokesmen contend it would drive business from Texas.

2. A measure providing for enforcement of the escheat law. This is known as the abandoned property act, which was defeated in 1959 despite the governor's vigorous efforts.

Governor Daniel says he will call a special session if the bill isn't passed in regular session.

3. A temporary increase for one year of from 7 to 10 per cent on natural gas production. Governor Daniel says this is to fill the revenue gap while the natural gas severance beneficiary tax is being thrashed out in court.

A new tax bill introduced in the House would levy a two percent tax on all real estate transactions. It is by Rep. George Hinson of Mineola.

REFERENDUM STALLS
House members refused to take a beat - the - clock short cut toward getting a tax referendum on the ballot at the April 4 special election.

Rep. Wesley Roberts of Lamar, sponsor of the bill, asked the House to instruct the State Affairs Committee to consider the bill immediately and report to the House.

Proposal was defeated 61-65, with the vote dividing approximately on the same line as the one by which Speaker James Tamm was elected.

Referendum would, in effect, have given the public an opportunity to say which of three possible broad - based taxes they would prefer - payroll, income or sales. Bill would have to have final passage before the end of February for the question to be printed on the ballot. Without hurry - up procedures the schedule will not be met.

Now the matter is left entirely to the legislators to determine. As most ran on platforms that called for no sales or income tax, these two taxing methods doubtless can be eliminated from further consideration.

HORSE RACING ARGUED

Legalized horse racing is still a live issue after a committee hearing that ran into the small hours of the morning.

Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio is sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment that would allow race tracks and pari-mutuel betting on a local option basis.

Opponents, mostly ministers and lay church leaders, called gambling a parasite on the economy and a producer of fewer jobs for the money spent than is possible in any other business.

Supporters called it a clean, popular sport to which Texas climate is ideally suited. And, they declared, a painless revenue raiser.

Poage Discusses Feed Grain Bill

By Cong. W. R. Poage

Last week I introduced the Administration's Feed Grain Bill. Basically, this bill is the same as the Feed Grain section of last year's "Poage Bill," but it is limited to the 1961 crop. It attempts, as that bill did, to reduce the overproduction of feed grains (corn and grain sorghum) by paying farmers to remove a part of their feed grain land from production and by assuring those who do cooperate of a higher support price for what they produce.

Last year I proposed that farmers should take at least 10 percent of their total tilled acres out of production in order to be eligible for any farm program. The Administration bill does not ask that farmers go this far - it only requires a reduction of the so - called "feed grain history" I had proposed that payment for these retired acres should be made entirely "in kind" - that is, from the surplus stocks of Commodity Credit Corporation. The Administration suggests that a part of these payments should be made in cash and a part "in kind."

There will, in my opinion, be a number of amendments made to the bill when it gets to the Committee. I will propose some of them myself, but I wanted the Administration bill to go before the House as soon as possible.

Secretary Freeman has shown that he is willing to try to work out adjustments and compromises. This is a new and, I think, very refreshing approach for the Department of Agriculture to take.

I hope that we will be able to agree upon a Feed Grains Bill by the end of next week. Speed is of vital importance in connection with this legislation because if it is to be effective, it must be passed before these crops are planted.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

I count it one of the great blessings of life that the newspapermen of Texas have bestowed their friendship upon me.

One time, though, one editor got mad; he blamed me for something that I had nothing to do with and I would have explained this to him if the opportunity had only been given. But he wrote a fiery article in which he declared, "Boyce House lost Fort Worth a million dollars on Casa Manana" - (referring to the Centennial celebration of 1936 and also the following season.)

The accusation disturbed me. In the first place Billy Rose was the producer; I was only the publicity director. In the second place, the show was not put on to make money but to publicize Fort Worth and keep Dallas, as the scene of the official State Centennial, from getting all the limelight. (You don't give a party to make money but to entertain your friends.) In the third place, if the money spent with the stores and hotels by the thousands of visitors was taken into account and if the world - wide attention the city received was considered, Fort Worth made several million dollars.

But (though I even if the accusation had been correct, not many people have ever lost a million dollars. A few hundred dollars or even several thousand dollars, yes - but not a million dollars!

Another thing, if I had lost a million dollars, I had been smart enough to lose somebody else's million and not my own.

Most Visible Color is Yellow

Most sportsmen think of safety colors as bright shades of red. But yellow makes a far better color to wear in the woods especially the reflecting type color. Scientific tests show that of all colors, yellow is the brightest and carries farthest.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Philosopher Willing To Stimulate Economy
But Finds Business Men Won't Cooperate

Dear editor:

The trouble with a lot of business men in this country is that they don't pay any attention to the economists.

For example, I was reading last night in a copy of a newspaper a man in town handed to me earlier in the day, I imagine to get rid of me, that an economic adviser told a group of business men the other day "America's economy is geared to a general expansion of prosperity." He said if everybody stopped buying, the economy would collapse. We've got to keep using all these things business is producing, or we'll be in trouble, he said.

In this connection, I notice Washington is concerned over the present economic state and is taking steps to inject a little stimulation. Therefore, taking both the economic experts and Washington at their word, I have been trying to do my part, but you'd be surprised at the number of business men who don't seem to know about the importance of injecting new money into the economy. There are plenty of things

I could use and would be glad to help stimulate the economy by buying them, but stores don't see it that way.

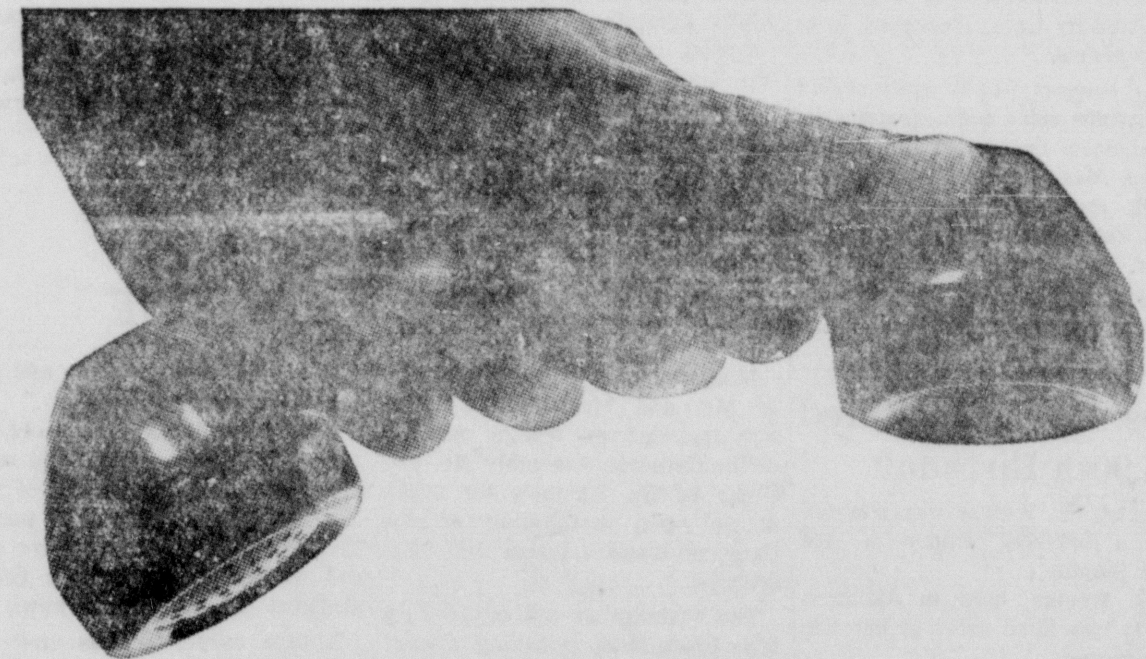

One of them just flatly told me, "You haven't finished paying yet for the stimulation you gave my business eight years ago."

This is what I'm talking about. How are you going to have an ever-expanding economy if people keep dragging in things that happened years ago and letting them get in the way?

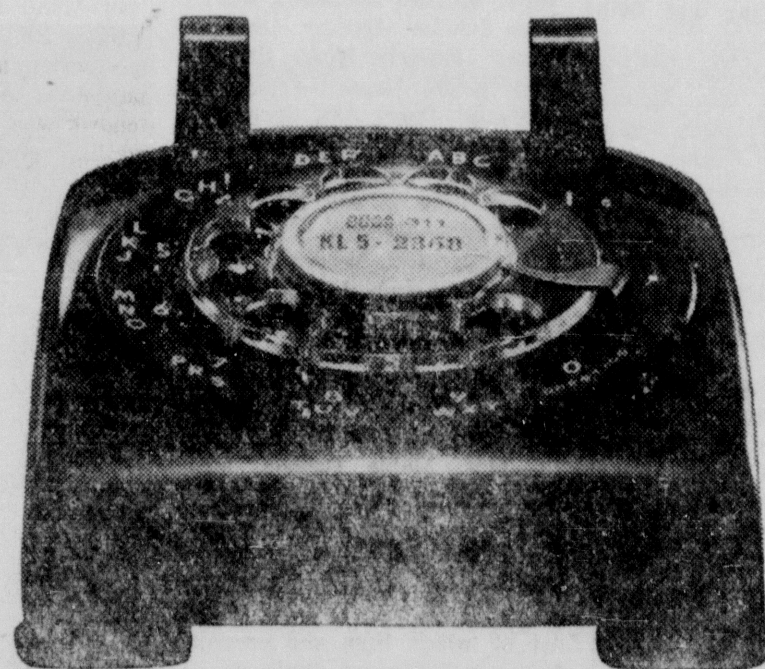

I could use a new tractor, new fences, new gates, a new roof, a new back porch, new front and back steps, a new well, a new pump, fifteen gallons of paint, etc. every one of which would go toward stimulating business and expanding the economy, but business men just don't pay enough attention to the experts.

I hope you're not in this category, and if my subscription to the Cameron Herald is coming due, just renew it and you and me will do our part to stimulate the economy.

Yours faithfully
J. A.

Rockdale Takes 19AA Basketball Crown

The Rockdale Tigers were crowned 19AA district basketball champions last Friday night in Rockdale, following their 55-39 playoff victory over the Caldwell Hornets.

The playoff game was the second and last in a series that would have gone to three games if Caldwell had won Friday night. Rockdale won the first game of the series, 28 - 27.

Both teams had identical 7-1, won - lost records in district competition, making them eligible for the playoffs to decide district and co - district champs.

Ronnie Laurence paced the Tigers Friday night with 13 points. Caldwell's Ben Mynor led Caldwell with 17. The Tigers held a 29 - 26 halftime advantage.

Daniel Yezak, Tiger speedster, provided the needed punch to edge Caldwell Thursday night in the first play off game. Final score was 28 - 27.

Rockdale held a 13 - 11 half-time score in one of the lowest scoring games witnessed by fans this year. Caldwell was held to one last half field goal, and it took a 6 point scoring burst on behalf of Yezak to give Rockdale the needed edge.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

Offat's Bayou, a salt water body of water located within the city limits of Galveston, becomes a mecca for thousands of speckled trout fishermen every winter.

Not just fishermen from the Galveston - Houston area, but anglers from all over the state.

It's the upper Texas Coast's sailing, outboarding and water skiing center in the summer and one of the most talked - about trout fishing holes on the Western Gulf Coast in the winter.

Offat's Bayou is just three miles long and a mile wide at its widest spot. It's generally 20 to 30 feet deep.

Once it was a meandering and sluggish bayou typical of the many found on the Texas and Louisiana coasts. But the building of Galveston turned it into a top fishing and recreational body of water.

Just a few years after the terrible 1900 storm that cost the lives of 7,000 Galvestonians, huge dredges moved into Offat's Bayou, widening and deepening it to provide part of the fill for the city's grade - raising and protective seawall.

Deepened and widened, the bayou soon became a top trout spot in cold weather.

Blue northerners that barrel down in the winter put a chill in the water and "blow the tides" out of Galveston bays. These northerners cause waters to funnel rapidly out into the Gulf, and it is common for bay tides to drop as much as three feet below normal. The chilled water coupled with the tide drops, cause speckled trout to move into the deep holes in Offat's Bayou in great schools.

So, Offat's Bayou fishing hinges on cold water and the colder the weather, the better the old salts like it.

Anglers fish Offat's Bayou in two ways. Most of them work near the mouth of the bayou at the start of a cold wave. The mouth is just about 100 yards wide where the bayou joins with West Bay. Anglers will get some fish entering the bayou, but actually the best catches take place a day or two after a cold wave hits. Then the anglers work the bayou proper - waders walking out to the edge of the stepoffs and outboarders working the middle bayou. Fish remain in the bayou until bay tides return to normal and the water warms up a bit.

It's strictly bottom fishing with the best bait being live shrimp. But when a peak trout run is on, the two dozen bait camps around the bayou often can't meet the demand. So if you plan to fish Offat's Bayou, be sure to take along some bottom - bumping plugs and spoons.

Cast out and let the bait or lure sink to the bottom. Then work it in slowly with gentle jerks.

In cold weather the trout are sluggish and don't strike hard. They just tap lightly at a bait. It's tight - line fishing with quick reflexes. When you feel a nibble, strike gently. Strike with your wrist and not your arm. Speckled trout have tender mouths and striking too hard will just tear out the hook.

But once on the hook, a trout will shake off its sluggishness and put up a real crap. Again because of the tender mouths, you have to play them all the way - no horsing.

Offat's Bayou trout generally run two to three pounds in size. Sometimes anglers will hit into schools of five - pounders and on occasion some eight and nine pounders have been caught.

In addition to the speckled trout, a good many flounders and redfish also are caught. The reds are generally rats of two or three pounds. Once in a while some bulls of 15 or 20 pounds are taken. But if you want big redfish consistently, you'd better spend your time surf - fishing or working the jetties along the coast.

Is Offat's Bayou popular for winter fishing? One Sunday morning in December 1960, a total of 269 boats were counted on the bayou.

Each boat contained two to three fishermen. Waders ran an estimated thousand. The trout catch for the day was close to 15,000. And on that particular day the temperature stood at 38 degrees.

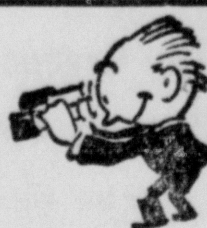

Offat's Bayou comes into its own as a speckled trout spot in October. The peak runs usually take place in December, January, and February. By the time April rolls around, the trout runs are over.

When warm weather comes, the trout fishermen vacate the bayou for the bays and open gulf waters. Then the water ski fans, sailing enthusiasts and outboarders take over until the blue northerners come barreling in again in October.

And it all takes place right in the city limits.

CAMERON HERALD

VIEW ON SPORTS

— WITH ROBERT MANN —

A new athletic award policy has been installed at Yoe High School and we might add, the present policy is much more efficient than the one used in the past.

Endorsed by head Coach Bill Bates and the rest of the high administration, the new program will allow all athletes, not just football players to receive jackets.

The policy is devised to make the award harder to earn, therefore more meaningful, encourage participation in more than one sport, to present uniform awards and to classify sports in categories based upon length of playing season.

A point system is being used to determine the award an athlete will receive. Four points are required to receive a jacket.

Varsity football counts as four points alone; basketball, track and B team football are valued at two points, baseball, golf, and tennis is one point.

To letter in football a player must participate in 2-5 of the quarter played. The same ruling goes for basketball, while in baseball it takes 2-5 of the innings played to get a point.

A track point is scored by averaging one point per regularly scheduled track meet or tallying two points in the district meet. A golf or tennis player has to qualify for the regional meet.

From herein, all athletes receiving an award are required to sign to conditions that their award isn't their personal property until graduation or they move to another school district.

Any unbecoming conduct gives the school the right to reclaim the award until they see fit to return it.

Misses Perrin, Reid To Participate In District League Meet

"Resolve that the United Nations should be significantly strengthened", is the question most prominent in the minds of two YHS Senior girls, Siddy Perrin and Helen Reid.

These two girls will present Cameron in the literary district meet and Interscholastic League activities this year in the debating category, and the above question will be the one used for high schools throughout Texas this year.

As yet, these two are alone in their debating quest, although Cameron's Mark Perrin won district in the event last year, along with a 500 dollar scholarship to Texas University.

Mark, a brother to this year's debator, was in the event three years before winning the district berth. His scholarship was provided by the Jesse Jones Foundation.

Miss Reid has two years of debating behind her while Miss Perrin is a rookie, to the event, although she has participated in Ready Writing in the past and plans to do so this year along with debating.

Siddy, editor of the school's "Yoemen Chant", among other activities, is also rated as one of her classes top students. Helen has maintained an A average in her work throughout high school and ranks near, or at the top of the list in her class, scholastic wise. Both girls are members of the YHS band.

Follow Instructions For Better Results

Here's how you can get better service from your District Internal Revenue Service office, according to R. L. Phinney, Austin District Director.

"Closely follow the instructions accompanying each return, bill or notice.

"Be certain you enclose with your remittance the properly completed form, or the Director's copy of the bill or notice as indicated. It's a good idea to paper clip not staple these to your check or money order.

"When your account number is stated, enter it on your check.

"Type or print your name and address wherever required.

"Mail your remittance and papers to the proper Internal Revenue office - and don't forget that the final date for filing that return for 1960 is April 17."

Crow hunting can be a lot of fun, especially as between - season shooting.

If you can spot a flyway the critters use on their way to roost each night you can get in some great pass shooting.

Choose a hilltop, if possible to locate a make - shift blind. Pull up a pile of brush and get set before the evening arrivals start flying across.

The invitations have been issued to Central Texas school superintendents by the Texas Education Agency and Irby B. Carruth, superintendent of the Austin school system.

Students in senior high schools in Bastrop, Lee, Milam, Robertson, Travis and Williamson Counties are eligible to enter individual projects in the competitive Science and Mathematics Fair. Both junior and senior high students may enter a non-competitive division and present research papers.

The expanded demonstration is a part of a national pilot study sponsored by the United States Office of Education in cooperation with the Texas Agency. Local sponsors are the Austin Independent School District and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Travis County Medical Society.

Four major activities will be conducted during the day: (1) the annual Science and Mathematics Fair; (2) a presentation of research papers by students from grade 7-12; (3) a sharing of ideas and materials by teachers; and (4) a meeting of members, officers and sponsors of science and mathematics clubs.

Stretch Trolley Tight

How you stretch the main line of your trolley is very important. Market catfishermen know this and their catches are generally big.

Stretch line tight, so that when a fish bites, the hook will set at once.

Fish may mouth hook loose if line is slack.
